Agency Spotlight - ServeMinnesota

ServeMinnesota's Reading Corps aligns with UWWCE's focus on youth becoming healthy and productive citizens by helping students build the literacy skills they need to thrive in school and in life. Reading Corps serves more than 1,200 children in Washington County. In the UWWCE service area, Reading Corps tutors work with children from age 3 to 3rd grade who are at risk for failure. Reading Corps tutors are AmeriCorps members who commit to a year of service in their community. They are given intensive training in literacy tutoring and provide free direct delivery of the program to students. Reading Corps coordinates directly with schools to embed tutors at the school and work with students daily during school hours, which is unique in that students are not limited to "outside of school" help. Tutors use proven strategies that quickly and inexpensively improve reading outcomes and help struggling students get on track to become proficient readers.

Reading Corps provides children with the early reading skills necessary to achieve these outcomes by targeting those who most need supplemental literacy support. They specifically target children who are below proficiency in reading and need supplemental support, including those with higher risk factors such as English language learners and low-income students. From preschool through 3rd grade, children learn to read but after 3rd grade students are reading to learn. This time-sensitive window presents an opportunity to build a foundation for a lifetime of education and economic success.

Reading Corps is now looking for caring adults to serve as tutors during the 2018-19 school year. To learn more or get involved, visit www.minnesotareadingcorps.org
